

The Innocence Record Privacy Policy

Thank you for visiting The Innocence Record website at www.innocencerecord.org ("the Site") and reviewing our Privacy Policy. As used herein, the terms "The Innocence Record," "we" and "us" and "our" refers to Winston & Strawn LLP, its owners, affiliates, officers, directors, partners, employees and agents. This Privacy Policy describes how we handle personal information collected on the Site. This Privacy Policy describes only how we use information collected on the Site, and does not apply to information we may collect from you or obtain from you in other forums, including on other websites we may operate, through email communications, offline, or information about you we may be provided with by third parties or otherwise.

This Privacy Policy is effective as of September 15, 2010, and the most recent version is posted on the Site. By using the Site, you understand that information you provide will be used as described in the most recent version of the Policy. Your continued use of the Site constitutes your understanding of and agreement to this Policy. If you do not agree with how your information will be used, you should not provide us with information or use the Site.

Personal Information We Collect and How It Is Used

You may browse the Site without providing personally identifiable information. However on certain areas of the Site we do permit users to provide us with personally identifiable information, including member login pages, when requesting additional access and on contact us pages. Information we collect includes your email address, login information, name, mailing address, date of birth, phone number, fax number, company name, information regarding your research study or project, the names of persons requesting access to information from the Site, personal preference information and reasons for requesting an account with The Innocence Record. Personally identifiable information you provide is used to access member-only areas of the website, to respond to your request for information, or as otherwise described on our Site, and for our other legitimate business purposes. Information you provide about exonerees on this website may be made available to the public for research, educational or informational purposes.

Web sites may collect information about your visits to the Site without you actively submitting such information. Unidentifiable information may be collected using various technologies, such as cookies, Internet tags, and web beacons. Your Internet browser automatically transmits to the Site some of this unidentifiable information, such as the URL of the web site you just visited and the browser version your computer is operating. Passive information collection technologies can make your use of the Site easier by allowing The Innocence Record to provide better service, customize sites based on consumer preference, compile statistics, analyze trends, and otherwise administer and improve the Site. Certain features of the Site may not work without use of passive information collection technologies. Information collected by these technologies cannot be used to identify you without additional identifiable information.

While we are not in the business of selling your information to third parties, from time to time we may disclose your personal information to third parties including: (1) if we believe we are required by law to do so, or to otherwise cooperate with law enforcement or governmental bodies; (2) if we believe it is necessary to protect us, the Site, The Innocence Record, a Site visitor, or other individual or entity; (3) to resolve a possible dispute or inquiry; (4) to a vendor or business associate who is performing functions on our behalf; (5) if we are jointly providing services with a business partner; and (6) third parties otherwise disclosed at the time we collect you information. In the event that a portion or substantially all of The Innocence Record's assets are sold or transferred to a third party, your personal information would likely be one of the transferred business assets. To the extent that we do share or sell information in the future, we will do so as described in any update to this Privacy Policy, or as described at the time you provide your information, as well as to respond to your request, or for our other legitimate business needs, including, from time to time, sending you information about The Innocence Record, our affiliates, parent company, or third parties, including about these entities' products or services in which we believe you may be interested.

Your Choices and Contacting Us

If you have provided us with your email address online, and would like to stop receiving marketing email messages from The Innocence Record, you may choose to opt out by sending an email with the words "opt out" in the subject of your email message to contactus@innocencerecord.org. You may also opt out at any time by following the instructions included in each such marketing message we may send to you at the time you receive it. For other comments or questions about our privacy practices, please contact us at: Winston & Strawn LLP, Attn: Pro Bono Department, 35 West Wacker Drive, Chicago, IL 60601.

At any time you may request to correct your Personal Information or request that The Innocence Record delete your Personal Information and no longer contact you either by e-mail, telephone, regular mail, or by any other means. To make any request described above, send an email to contactus@innocencerecord.org. When contacting us, please be sure to provide us with your exact e-mail address, name, address and/or telephone number(s) in order to be sure we handle your request correctly.

Site Security

The safety and security of your information depends on you. If you have access to password-protected features, never share your password with anyone else, notify us promptly if you believe your password security has been breached, and remember to log off of this site before you leave your computer. We use industry standard measures to protect this Site and information provided on the Site. We cannot guarantee, however, that our standard measures will prevent a third party from circumventing our security measures and unlawfully intercepting or accessing transmissions or private communications, or where an error may occur in the administration of the Site.

Links to Third Party Sites

On certain areas of this Web Site we may provide links to third party sites. This Privacy Policy does not describe information collection practices on other sites, including those linked to or from the Site. These links are provided as a convenience to you, however please be aware that we do not control the third-parties or their web sites, and those third parties will have a different Privacy Policy which applies to information that you may provide when you are on those third parties' sites. You should read the privacy policies of all web sites carefully before providing personally identifiable information.

Children on the Site

The Web Site is not intended for, nor do we knowingly collect online, information from children under the age of 13. We encourage parents to talk to their children about their use of the Internet and the information they disclose online. Parents, to learn about how to protect your child online, visit www.onguardonline.gov. If a child has provided us with personally identifiable information, a parent or guardian of that child may contact us via e-mail at contactus@innocencerecord.org if they would like this information deleted from our records.
